The Pompano Beach Fishing Pier Project included the demolition and replacement of the concrete fishing pier that extends 870' into the Atlantic Ocean. To protect the living marine environment, all work was performed using the Top Down Construction Method so the only items that touched the beach, ocean and ocean floor were the piling that supported the pier and our construction activity. The pier was raised and included break away deck panels to improve its ability to withstand major storm events. It includes a bait shack, shade structures, decorative concrete, murals and the pier end is shaped like a Pompano Fish making it a one of a kind landmark pier for the City of Pompano and the visitors to enjoy.
